Tucked away on a quiet cul-de-sac on the desirable Edcath Mews in one of Calgary's most sought after communities, this Edgemont bungalow is a top-to-bottom renovation done right, with a rare combination of privacy, design, and location — walking distance to some of the city's top-rated schools and surrounded by ravine pathways that make this pocket of the neighbourhood feel worlds away from the city. Step inside to this fully renovated walk-out bungalow with soaring 11-foot vaulted ceilings, exposed beams, and skylights that flood the kitchen with natural light. Designed to impress without sacrificing function, the Gourmet Kitchen offers generous prep space, extensive custom cabinetry, and an oversized refrigerator and freezer, while striking feature walls tie the main floor together with warmth and character. A 42' x 8' balcony runs the entire width of the home, providing scenic views and shade to the patio below. The primary bedroom features a stunning walk-in closet with custom built-in organization, while sliding French doors open onto the deck—the kind of spot that makes morning coffee feel like a ritual. The 5-piece ensuite is anchored by a freestanding soaker tub and designed with relaxation in mind. Downstairs, the fully developed walkout basement features a wet bar and wine cellar worthy of any collector, a cozy living room with fireplace, a glass-enclosed office or podcast studio, two additional bedrooms, and a laundry room anyone could actually enjoy. Even the details you won't show off to your friends are done right — a pristine mechanical room, new furnace, tankless hot water, and even a brand new driveway. Nothing has been overlooked. Too many updates to mention, top to bottom custom design and spacious layout. This home will not last.
